ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, JULY 9.

Whilst the Treaty was under discussion in the Senate, the following propositions were brought forward and respectively offered as substitutes to the resolution of Ratification which ultimately prevailed.

MR. BURR'S MOTION.

That the further consideration of the treaty concluded at London, the 19th of November, 1794, be postponed and that it be recommended to the President of the United States to proceed without delay, to further friendly negotiation with his Britannic Majesty, in order to effect alterations in the said Treaty, in the following particulars:—

That the 9th, 10th, and 14th articles, and so much of the 25th as relates to the shelter of refuge to be given to the armed vessels of States or Sovereigns at war with either party, be expunged.

2d. Art. That no privilege or right be allowed to the settlers or traders mentioned in the 2d article, other than those which are secured to them by the Treaty of 1783, and existing laws.

3d. Art. That the 3d article be expunged, or so modified that the citizens of the United States may have the use of all rivers, ports and places within the territories of his Britannic Majesty in North America, in the same manner as his subjects may have of those of the United States.

7th. Art. That the value of the negroes and other property, carried away contrary to the 7th article of the Treaty of 1783, and the loss and damage sustained by the United States, by the detention of the posts, be paid for by the British government; the amount to be ascertained by the commissioners who may be appointed to liquidate the claims of the British creditors.

12th Art. That what relates to the West-India trade and the provisos and conditions thereof in the 12th article, be expunged, or be rendered much more favorable to the United States, and without any restraint on the exportation in vessels of the United States, of any articles, not the growth, produce or manufacture of the said islands of his Britannic Majesty.

15th Art. That no clause be admitted which may restrain the United States from reciprocating benefits by discriminating between foreign nations, in their commercial arrangements, or prevent them from encreasing the tonnage, or other duties on British vessels, on terms of reciprocity, or in a stipulated ratio.

21st Art. That the subjects or citizens of either party be not restrained from accepting commissions in the army or navy of any foreign power.

MR. TAZEWELL'S MOTION.

THAT the President of the United States be informed, that the Senate will not consent to the ratification of the Treaty of Amity, Commerce and Navigation, between the United States and his Britannic Majesty, concluded at London on the 19th November, '94, for the reasons following:—

1. Because so much of the treaty as was intended to terminate the complaints, flowing from the inexecution of the treaty of 1783, contains stipulations that were not rightfully or justly requireable, of the United States, and which are, both impolitic and injurious to their interest; and because the treaty hath not secured that satisfaction from the British government, for the removal of negroes, in violation of the treaty of 1783, to which the citizens of the United States were justly entitled.

2. Because the rights of individual States, are by the 9th article of this treaty, unconstitutionally invaded.

3. Because however impolitic or unjust it may generally be, to exercise the power prohibited by the 10th article, yet it rests on legislative discretion, and ought not to be prohibited by treaty.

4. Because so much of the treaty, as relates to commercial arrangements between the parties, wants that reciprocity, upon which alone, such like arrangements ought to be founded, and will operate ruinously to the American commerce and navigation.

5. Because the treaty prevents the United States from the exercise of that controul over their commerce and navigation, as connected with other nations, which might better the condition of their intercourse with friendly nations.

6. Because the Treaty asserts a power in the President and Senate, to controul and even annihilate the constitutional rights of the Congress of the United States over their commercial intercourse with foreign nations.

7. Because if the construction of this Treaty should not produce an infraction of the Treaties now subsisting between the United States and their allies, it is calculated to excite sensations which may not operate beneficially to the United States.

Notwithstanding the Senate will not consent to the ratification of this treaty, they advise the President of the United States to continue his endeavours, by friendly discussion with his Britannic Majesty, to adjust all the real causes of complaint between the two nations.

These propositions were both rejected by a vote of 20 to 10. We are informed that, the members who voted in the affirmative were.

Bingham, Bradford, Cabot, Elsworth, Frelinghuysen, Foster, Gunn, Henry, King, Latimer, Paine, Potts, Read, Ross, Rutherford, Strong, Trumbull, Vining, Livermore and Marshall.

In the Negative
Brown, Bloodworth, Burr, Butler, Jackson, Langdon, Martin, Mason, Robinson and Tazewell.

SPEECH

Of Lord EDWARD FITZGERALD, on the first day of the Present Session in Ireland—Communicated by a Gentleman of this Town, to whom it was enclosed in a letter.

THE Address calls on this house, to pledge both itself and the people to approve and pursue the war, a war more iniquitous in its principles, than it has even been calamitous in its events. It is a war of tyrants against liberty, of Kings against the people; as a representative of the people, I must therefore oppose any measure that seems to give their sanction to it. Sir, if your feelings are not alarmed at its principles, let our prudence at least suggest the vanity of the attempt of giving a government to France; let us look to our history, and we shall recollect with pride, our glorious triumphs over Louis the XIV. when he attempted to give a government to these countries, and bring back the banished STUARTS to the throne. France then, with her twenty millions, could make no impression on these countries, animated with the spirit of Liberty; and we cannot expect to make any impression on France, animated in that same spirit.

But for a moment, suppose success; politically that success would be dangerous to Ireland.—With whatever regard we look to England, we must look to her, at the same time with a cautious and rather jealous eye. She has been too apt to engage in wars against liberty, and however fond of it herself, she has never been remarkably fond of imparting it to others. Her government, with PITT at its head, has twice since our emancipation endeavoured to render null the independence of your Legislature; I mean the propositions and regency. What then could we expect, were this same government to succeed against France? I, for one, should not be surprised, if we were forced to sing Te Deums for the happy settlement of our Irish constitution.

Sir, the establishment of the French republic will be a good security for the behaviour of England to Ireland. These opinions, to some may appear speculation, and may be disputed; but what is not speculative, and cannot be disputed, is the fatal consequence of the war; the increase of taxes, increase of expense; the decrease of manufacture.

Sir, the war is unpopular: no man can say, the people approve it; let us join the people and stop it. England will thank you; the country, with that part of the people of England, who disapprove the war, will give a majority of the empire.

Let us assist England with our reason, as we have done with our arms; let us be faithful, and speak truth to her; let us make use of our independence in the cause of justice and liberty; let us make use of it to stop this calamitous war.

Sir, had this country first declared against the war, what misfortune would the have averted—what expense of blood and treasure would the have spared to England! But the cry was, we were afraid of our constitution—of French principles, and, the right Hon. Mover has added of a French party.

Sir, I am afraid of our constitution, of Russian, Prussian, Hessian, and Hanoverian principles; I am not afraid of the RIGHTS OF MAN, I am afraid of the court party, I am afraid of the combination of despots.

TREATY OF AMITY, COMMERCE AND NAVIGATION, BETWEEN HIS BRITANNIC MAJESTY AND THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

ART. VI. Whereas it is alleged by divers British merchants and others his Majesty's subjects, that debts to a considerable amount, which were bona fide contracted before the peace, still remain owing to them by citizens or inhabitants of the United States, and that by the operation of various lawful impediments since the peace, not only the full recovery of the said debts has been delayed, but also the value and security thereof have been, in several instances, impaired and lessened, so that by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, the British creditors cannot now obtain, and actually have and receive full and adequate compensation for the losses and damages which they have thereby sustained: It is agreed that in all such cases where full compensation for such losses and damages cannot for whatever reason be actually obtained, had and received by the said creditors in the ordinary course of justice, the United States will make full and complete compensation for the same to the said creditors: But it is distinctly understood, that this provision is to extend to such losses only as have been occasioned by the lawful impediments aforesaid, and is not to extend to losses occasioned by such insolvency of the debtors, or other causes as would equally have operated to produce such loss if the said impediments had not existed, nor to such losses or damages as have been occasioned by the manifest delay or negligence, or wilful omission of the claimant.

For the purpose of ascertaining the amount of any such losses or damages, five commissioners shall be appointed, and authorized to meet and act in the following manner, viz. Two of them shall be appointed by his Majesty, two of them by the President of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, and the fifth by the unanimous voice of the other four: and if they should not agree in such choice, then the commissioners named by the two parties shall respectively propose one person, and of the two names so proposed, one shall be drawn by lot in the presence of the four original Commissioners. When the five commissioners thus appointed shall first meet, they shall, before they proceed to act, respectively take the following oath or affirmation, in the presence of each other, which oath or affirmation being so taken and duly attested, shall be entered on the record of their proceedings, viz.—

I, A. B. one of the commissioners appointed in pursuance of the 6th article of the Treaty of Amity, Commerce and Navigation between his Britannic Majesty and the United States of America do solemnly swear, or affirm, that I will honestly, diligently, impartially, and carefully examine, and to the best of my judgment, according to justice and equity, decide all such complaints, as under the said article shall be preferred to the said Commissioners; and that I will forbear to act as a Commissioner in any case in which I may be personally interested.

Three of the said commissioners shall constitute a board and shall have power to do any act appertaining to the said commission, provided that one of the Commissioners named on each side, and the fifth Commissioner shall be present, and all decisions shall be made by the majority of the voices of the commissioners then present: 18 months from the day on which the said commissioners shall form a board, and be ready to proceed to business, are assigned for receiving complaints and applications; but they are nevertheless authorized in any particular cases in which it shall appear to them to be reasonable and just, to extend the said term of eighteen months for any term not exceeding six months, after the expiration thereof. The said Commissioners shall first meet at Philadelphia, but they shall have power to adjourn from place to place as they shall see cause.

The said Commissioners in examining the complaints and applications so preferred to them, are empowered and required, in pursuance of the true intent and meaning of this article, to take into their consideration all claims, whether of principal or interest, or balances of principal and interest, and to determine the same respectively, according to the merits of the several cases, due regard being had to all the circumstances thereof, and as equity and justice shall appear to them to require. And the said commissioners shall have power to examine all such persons as come before them on oath or affirmation touching the premises; and also to receive in evidence according as they may think most consistent with equity and justice, all written depositions, or books, or papers, or copies, or extracts thereof, every such deposition, book, or paper, or copy, or extract being duly authenticated, either according to the legal forms now respectively existing in the two countries, or in such other manner as the said commissioners shall see cause to require or allow.

The award of the said commissioners or of any three of them as aforesaid, shall in all cases be final and conclusive, both as to the justice of the claim, and to the amount of the sum to be paid to the creditor or claimant: And the United States undertake to cause the sum so awarded to be paid in specie to such creditor or claimant without deduction; and at such time or times, and at such place or places as shall be awarded by the said commissioners; and on condition of such releases or assignments to be given by the creditor or claimant, as by the said commissioners may be directed: Provided always, that no such payment shall be fixed by the said commissioners to take place sooner than twelve months from the day of the exchange of the ratifications of this Treaty.

ART. VII. Whereas complaints have been made by divers merchants and others, citizens of the United States, that during the course of the war in which his Majesty is now engaged, they have sustained considerable losses and damage, by reason of irregular or illegal captures or condemnations of their vessels and other property under colour of authority or commissions from his Majesty, and that from various circumstances belonging to the said cases, adequate compensation for the losses and damages so sustained cannot now be actually obtained, had and received by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings; it is agreed, that in all such cases where adequate compensation cannot, for whatever reason, be now actually obtained, had and received by the said merchants and others in the ordinary course of justice, full and complete compensation for the same will be made by the British government to the said complainants. But it is distinctly understood that this provision is not to extend to such losses or damages as have been occasioned by the manifest delay or negligence, or wilful omission of the claimants.

That for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of any such losses and damages, five commissioners shall be appointed and authorized to act in London, exactly in the manner directed with respect to those mentioned in the preceding article, and after having taken the same oath or affirmation (mutatis mutandis) the same term of eighteen months is also assigned for the reception of claims, and they are in like manner authorized to extend the same in particular cases. They shall receive testimony, books, papers and evidence in the same latitude, and exercise the like discretion and powers respecting that subject; and shall decide the claims in question according to the merits of the several cases, and to justice, equity, and the laws of nations. The award of the said commissioners, or any such three of them as aforesaid, shall, in all cases be final and conclusive, both as to the justice of the claim, and the amount of the sum to be paid to the claimant; and his Britannic Majesty undertakes to cause the same to be paid to such claimant in specie without any deduction, at such place or places, and at such time or times as shall be awarded by the said commissioners, and on condition of such releases or assignments to be given by the claimants, as by the said commissioners may be directed.

And whereas certain merchants and others his Majesty's subjects complain that in the course of the war they have sustained loss and damages by reason of the capture of the vessels and merchandise taken within the limits and jurisdiction of the states and brought into the ports of the same, or taken by vessels originally armed in ports of the said states.

It is agreed that in all such cases where restitution shall not have been made agreeably to the tenor of the letter from Mr. Jefferson to Mr. Hammond, dated at Philadelphia, Sept. 5, 1793, a copy of which is annexed to this treaty; the complaints of the parties shall be and hereby are referred to the commissioners to be appointed by virtue of this article, who are hereby authorized and required to proceed in the like manner relative to these as to the other cases committed to them; and the United States undertake to pay to the complainants or claimants in specie, without deduction, the amount of such sums as shall be awarded to them respectively by the said commissioners, and at the times and places which in such awards shall be specified; and on condition of such releases or assignments to be given by the claimants as in the said awards may be directed: and it is further agreed that not only the now existing cases of both descriptions but also all such as shall exist at the time of exchanging the ratifications of this treaty shall be considered as being within the provisions, intent and meaning of this article.

ART. VIII. It is further agreed, that the commissioners mentioned in this and the two preceding articles shall be respectively paid in such manner as shall be agreed between the two parties; such agreement being to be settled at the time of the exchange of the ratifications of this treaty. And all other expenses attending the said commissioners shall be defrayed jointly by the two parties; the same being previously ascertained and allowed by the majority of the commissioners. And in the case of death, sickness or necessary absence, the place of every such commissioner respectively shall be supplied in the same manner as such commissioner was first appointed, and the new commissioners shall take the same oath or affirmation and do the same duties.

ART. IX. It is agreed that British subjects who now hold lands in the territories of the United States and American citizens who now hold lands in the dominions of his Majesty shall continue to hold them according to the nature and tenure of their respective estates and titles therein; and may grant, sell or devise the same to whom they please, in like manner as if they were natives; and that neither they nor their heirs or assigns shall so far as may respect the said lands and the legal remedies incident thereto, be regarded as aliens.

ART. X. Neither the debts due from individuals of the one nation to individuals of the other, nor shares nor monies which they may have in the public funds, or in the public or private banks, shall ever in any event of war or national differences be sequestered or confiscated, it being unjust and impolitic that debts and engagements contracted and made by individuals having confidence in each other and in their respective governments should ever be destroyed or impaired by national authority on account of national differences and discontents.

ART. XI. It is agreed between his Majesty and the United States of America that there shall be a reciprocal and entirely perfect liberty of navigation and commerce between their respective people, in the manner, under the limitations and on the conditions specified in the following articles.

ART. XII. His Majesty consents that it shall and may be lawful during the time herein after limited for the citizens of the United States to carry to any of his Majesty's islands and ports in the West-Indies from the United States, in their own vessels, not being above the burthen of 70 tons, any goods or merchandises being of the growth, manufacture or produce of the said states, which it is or may be lawful to carry to the said islands or ports from the said states, in British vessels; and that the said American vessels shall be subject there to no other or higher tonnage duties or charges than shall be payable by British vessels in the ports of the United States; and that the cargoes of the said American vessels shall be subject there to no other or higher duties or charges than shall be payable on the like articles if imported there from the said states in British vessels.

And his Majesty also consents that it shall be lawful for the said American citizens to purchase, load and carry away in their said vessels to the United States from the said islands and ports, all such articles being of the growth, manufacture or produce of the said islands as may now by law be carried from thence to the said States in British vessels and subject only to the same duties and charges on exportation to which British vessels and their cargoes are or shall be subject in similar circumstances.

Provided always that the said American vessels do carry and land their cargoes in the United States only, it being expressly agreed and declared that during the continuance of this article, the United States will prohibit and restrain the carrying any molasses, sugar, coffee, cocoa, or cotton in American vessels, either from his Majesty's islands or from the United States to any part of the world except the United States, reasonable sea stores excepted. Provided also, that it shall and may be lawful, during the same period, for British vessels to import from the said islands into the United States and to export from the United States to the said islands, all articles whatever being of the growth, produce or manufacture of the said islands or of the United States respectively, which now may, by the laws of the said States, be so imported and exported. And that the cargoes of the said British vessels shall be subject to no other or higher duties or charges than shall be payable on the same articles if so imported or exported in American vessels.

It is agreed that this article and every matter and thing therein contained shall continue to be in force during the continuance of the war in which his Majesty is now engaged; and also for two years from and after the day of the signature of the preliminary, or other articles of peace by which the same may be terminated.

And it is further agreed, that at the expiration of the said term, the two contracting parties will endeavour further to regulate their commerce in this respect according to the situation in which his Majesty may then find himself with respect to the West-Indies, and with a view to such arrangements as may best conduce to the mutual advantage and extension of commerce. And the said parties will then also renew their discussions, and endeavour to agree, whether in any or what cases, neutral vessels shall protect enemies property; and in what cases provisions and other articles, not generally contraband, may become such. But in the mean time their conduct towards each other in these respects, shall be regulated by the articles herein after inserted on these subjects.

Alexandria and Charleston

PACKET.

PACKETS are evidently calculated and deservedly considered to be of special and extensive utility to the commerce of a free and industrious people. It influenced by an ardent wish, therefore, to accomplish so interesting and desirable an object—to conduce in any degree to the reciprocal advantage of the public—the subscribers have, at no small pains, selected a neat Schooner, called the TWO SISTERS, of about 50 tons burthen, for the purpose of establishing her as a Packet from this port to Charleston. Having a pleasant and commodious cabin for the accommodation of passengers; the subscribers flatter themselves they may not fail to ensure universal satisfaction.

Matthew F. Bowne & Co.

The Two Sisters is now ready to receive either freight or passengers, on the most reasonable terms, and will positively sail on Monday next.

Alexandria, July 8, 1795.

Notice that I intend to leave this Country for Europe, for a few months, by the first opportunity.

Poet's Corner.

The DISAPPOINTMENT.

FROM the long toils of travel I return'd,
Well pleas'd at length, to see my native shore;
For Betty fill my faithful bosom burn'd,
For Betty's heart was all her sailor's store.

With eager steps I sought the lowly cot,
Where dwelt my love in peaceful humble state;
And liv'd contented with her rustic lot,
Fat from the cares and grandeur of the great.

Silent and leafless was the neighbouring wood,
Torn by the fury of the raging winds;
And the gay spot where once the cottage stood,
Lone and forsaken by the rural hind.

The swelling main, urg'd by the boist'rous wind,
With wide-spread billows swept the adjacent shore;
Left of the cot no rural trace behind,
Save the old oak that grew beside the door.

As o'er an elm I bent in silent woe,
And gaz'd with sorrow o'er the dreary scene;
An ancient shepherd from the mountain's brow,
With tottering footsteps pass'd along the green.

Oh, lonely veteran of the plain, I cried,
Tell, if thou canst—alas! 'tis all I crave;
Is Betty safe,—he, in a tear, replied,
And pointed to the yew that bended o'er her grave.
